UD ASSOCIATE HEAD COACH

TODD LINKLATER

Todd Linklater is in his 12th season as pitching coach at the University of Dayton. After beginning at UD in 1999, Linklater was promoted to Associate Head Coach of Flyer Baseball in 2006. In addition to serving as the team's pitching coach, he is also UD's player development coordinator.

Last season, the Flyer pitchers had arguably the finest season of any Dayton staff. Dayton set three program pitching records – strikeouts (429, breaking the old record by 59), innings pitched (528.1) and fewest walks allowed (128). UD's team ERA (3.94) was the lowest since 1978 and the fourth-best all-time.

The Flyers were second in the nation (behind Florida) in walks allowed per nine innings (2.18).

The 2011 season also saw Burny Mitchem selected as UD's first pitcher named First Team All-Atlantic 10, and Cameron Hobson drafted the highest of any Dayton baseball player (11th round, Seattle Mariners).

Hobson was the ninth Flyer chosen in the last 11 MLB drafts, and of those nine, eight pitched for Linklater. Those drafted pitchers include two major-leaguers -- Jerry Blevins of the Oakland A's and Craig Stammen of the Washington Nationals.

Four Dayton pitchers have played in the prestigious Cape Cod Summer Collegiate League in the last four summers -- Quinn Haselhorst (2008), Hobson and Mitchem (2010) and Mike Hauschild (2011).

With those four players on the pitching staff, the Flyers won the 2009 regular season Atlantic 10 Championship.

The 2008 team was 30th in the nation in ERA (4.24).

Under Linklater's tutelage, UD's pitching staff has turned in the top seven single-season team strikeout marks and the five best team totals for fewest walks in a season.

In addition, four of the top five Flyer pitchers in career wins and career strikeouts have pitched for Linklater.
